DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 4 is objected to because of the following informalities: it is missing a period after the word "formed" in the last line of the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 3713

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozaki et al. US PUB 2001/0031658 in view of Tokunaga, USPN 5,375,043.

Ozaki et al. discloses a gaming machine comprising variable display means (30a-30c); front display means (28a-28c) that is a transparent LCD, see e.g. [0007] discloses the well known prior art; and wherein the transparent areas are formed by openings, see e.g. figure 2. What Ozaki et al. lacks in clearly discloses is the backlighting that is utilized to illuminate the LCD. In an analogous device, Tokunaga teaches using a light guide plate and associated light source means (16 and 2a-2d) to illuminate the display LCD on a game machine, in this case a GAMEBOY. Tokunaga teaches using the system in order to inform the player of a high point game, thus a big win, see e.g. col. 4. Therefore, one of ordinary skill in the art would find it obvious to incorporate the teachings of Tokunaga into the disclosed invention of Ozaki et al. for the reasons found in Tokunaga of providing a player of a higher win, which in the case of Ozaki et al. would mean a higher payoff on the gaming machine.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozaki et al. US PUB 2001/0031658 in view of

Art Unit: 3713

Tokunaga, USPN 5,375,043 further in view of Mott, USPN 4,756,414.

What the former two references disclose, teach and suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art is discussed above and incorporated herein. What the aforementioned references lack in clearly disclosing, teaching and suggesting in placement of an antistatic sheet. Mott teachings and provides reasons for utilizing antistatic sheets around electrical components: the build up of electrostatic charges can result in the discharge of a spark which can arc over or otherwise damage or destroy electrical components; or the build up of electrostatic charge causes a collection of dust and other contaminants on the electrical components. Therefore, one skilled in the art would have been motivated and find it obvious to overlay a thin transparent antistatic sheet as taught in Mott for the reasons given in Mott regarding the detrimental outcomes that could happen with the build up of electrostatic charges.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
